Lakeland Regional Health Authority hopes for improved odds on second deficit budget

By Todd MacKay
Staff Writer

The health authority decided to gamble again by sending another deficit budget to the health minister rather than closing facilities last week.

Even though they had little luck with the previous deficit budget the health minister rejected, the Lakeland Regional Health Authority (LRHA) is hopeful this time will be different.

"If I were a betting man I'd say we have a 50-50 chance," Ernie Isley, Lakeland Regional Health Authority (LRHA) chair.

After Health and Wellness Minister Gary Mar rejected the original $5.7 million deficit budget, he appointed a consultant to help LRHA balance the books and resubmit a new plan on July 31. Mar has committed to respond to the proposal within seven working days.

Even though the health minister rejected the first deficit budget and expects a balanced tally, the LRHA hopes some new ideas and clarified numbers will satisfy this time around.

The number one new idea is an aggressive campaign to have people stay in Lakeland for care rather than going to places like Edmonton.

"We have to use it or lose it," says St. Paul board member John Pilipchuk. "Crisis can be good, it can pull people together. If we can get people to think 'Lakeland' we'll be okay."

Dramatically reducing the number of funding dollars leaving the LRHA as residents seek care outside the area is the biggest, but not the only facet of the board's plan.

The cost for ambulance transfers between facilities used to be covered by patients (or their insurance providers), says Pilipchuk, but the provincial government recently forced regional authorities to take responsibility for that cost without providing additional funding. Pilipchuk says reversing that decision would significantly improve the LRHA's position.

"Inter-facility ambulance transfers cost the LRHA $630,000," says Pilipchuk. "But insurance company premiums did not go down. They're smiling all the way to the bank."

While steadfastly resistant to the idea of closing the St. Paul psych unit, Pilipchuk says the board also sees it as an opportunity to save money. They would like to see the unit taken off LRHA books and funded by Alberta Mental Health instead.

The LRHA did find ways to trim another $600,000 to add to the $1.6 million it had previously cut from the $137 million budget.

Nearly all of the major cost cutting measures proposed by consultant Jim Saunders had been rejected by the board in the past and were rejected again. Options like closing the Elk Point health centre, the stroke rehabilitation centre in Two Hills, or the psych unit in St. Paul were all deemed too damaging to be accepted by the health board.

Standing firm on its no-closure policy, LRHA's only remaining option was to submit another deficit budget.

The new budget proposes to run a deficit of $7 million at the end of this year, $2.7 million next year, and $1.2 million in the 2004-2005 fiscal year.

LRHA projects a balanced budget in the following year.

The business plan originally rejected by the health minister proposed a $5.7 million deficit this year and balanced books in the third year. The situation is worse in the new budget because cost cutting measures were delayed while waiting for government approval, according to the LRHA.

Farmers learn from ag tour despite drought

By Todd MacKay
Staff Writer

This year's agricultural tour was a little less focused on which traditional crop varieties have the highest yield and greatest disease resistance.

"We tried to pull away from the mainstream crops," says Jeremy Robinson, the A site coordinator for the Lakeland Agricultural Research Association.

About 30 farmers on the County of St. Paul Agricultural Service Board Tour saw some new and different ideas such as growing indigenous plants for the medicinal or aromatic uses.

It's hard for the market to support fields full of plants like fire-weed and mint, but a few acres can provide another source of income, says Ron Wirsta who manages the St. Paul municipal Seed Cleaning Plant.

"A few farmers are growing (indigenous) crops and making money," says Robinson.

The move to specialty crops illustrates a shift in farming practices, says Robinson. In the past most agriculture specialists dealt with production; now the specialists are in more demand for the marketing end of farming.

As for the acres of test plots growing around the seed plant, the chances of receiving the hoped for research results are facing the same fate affecting most crops in the area.

BLOCKING the vehicle makes it a stable platform for rescuers to work on.

Getting victims out of a wreck safely

Elk Point volunteer firefighters learn to raise the roof

Elk Point volunteer firefighters learned the fine art of extricating a victim from a crashed car last Monday night.

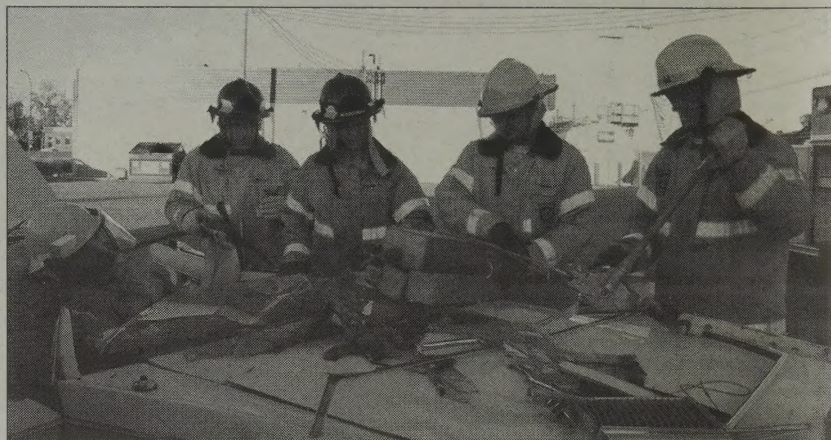

Trainer Jay MacNeill, who works for Elk Point and District Ambulance in addition to being a volunteer firefighter, led the group through the steps from surveying the crash scene to dismantling the vehicle sufficiently to remove its occupants.

With Dean Rogal designated as the scene commander, the group assessed potential hazards before blocking the vehicle to create a stable platform to work on. Using the Jaws of Life and a jigsaw, they removed side and corner posts to enable them to lift the flattened roof off 'victim' and fellow firefighter Dan Cazabon.

With the roof removed, they learned the fine points of pulling a steering wheel away from a victim, and how to jack the dash forward to obtain that extra inch or two necessary to remove the occupant - skills which save lives when utilized at a crash scene.

CRIME STOPPERS

Between the hours of 8 p.m., June 28 and 3:30 a.m., June 29, a vehicle was stolen from the apartment building east of the hospital in Elk Point. The vehicle is described as a 988 Chev Cavalier, red in color. The vehicle may be recognized as having the center lug nut covers missing. Access to the vehicle was gained by smashing out the passenger side window.

Anyone with information is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or the Elk Point RCMP Detachment at 724-3829.

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $2000 for information leading to the arrest of the person(s) responsible for this or any other crime. You do not have to reveal your identity and if your tip leads to an arrest you qualify for an award.

Ross Knight wins Reginal Buffalo Days chucks

Ross Knight was the big winner at Regina Buffalo Days chuckwagon meet, taking third day money on Tuesday and first on Wednesday to give him a 16/100 second lead over Brian Laboucane going into the final night.

Both Knight and Laboucane placed well down in Thursday's day money, but still placed first and second overall for the show, with Knight's lead reduced to just 7/100 second to take the win.

Grant Preece took Thursday's day money, running more than two seconds faster than Knight's Thursday time.

The CPCA's top 10 wagons after Regina are: 1. Brian Laboucane, 2. Larry McEwen, 3. Wayne Knight, 4. Layne McGillivray, 5. Jim Knight, 6. Leo Tournier, 7. Luke Tournier, 8. Ross Knight, 9. Vern Nolin, 10. Shane Nolin. Bert Croteau sits twelfth and Doug Irvine fifteenth overall.

The wagons run in Saskatoon this week-end in the last show before the Lloydminster Showdown finals.

community NEWS*Not Just Another Garage Sale

By Dee Pankiw
Journal Contributor

The Elk Point Curling Rink will be the site of Not Just Another Garage Sale from noon Tuesday (August 13th) until noon Friday (the 16th).

Oh, there will be the usual lineup of merchandise: household items, kids' clothes, ornaments, books, even some pieces of furniture and a weight bench. But these things are not for sale.

If you want to own some of this neat stuff, you will have to make a donation to the Canadian Cancer Society. In return for that donation, you can choose a gift from the display.

All donations of $15 or more, and given by personalized cheque will receive in the mail a receipt from the Canadian Cancer Society for a taxable donation.

Smaller donations and any cash donations will be submitted to the Cancer Society by the original owners of the merchandise. All proceeds after expenses will be donated to cancer research.

If you need some basic items, or just love a garage sale, come on down.

If you enjoy haggling over prices, here's a switch. You set the "price"—the donation—and we can haggle over how much stuff you receive as a gift.

If you want to donate items for this event, please call Dee Pankiw at 724-2250 before Friday, August 9th. You will be responsible for delivery of items to the Curling rink and for pick-up and disposal of unused items after the sale.

Woman injured in Hwy. 41 crash

By Cst. Sheldon Hynes

Elk Point RCMP

On August 1st at approximately 5:00 pm, a truck towing a horse trailer was struck from behind as it was about to turn west on township road 550 from highway 41, south of Elk Point. The investigation is continuing but early indicators seem to suggest that the vehicle that had been following the truck and trailer was travelling at a high rate of speed with the driver's attention possibly distracted. The collision caused extensive damage to both vehicles and the driver of the car was transported to an Edmonton hospital with a broken leg and other less serious injuries. The female driver of the car likely escaped much more serious injuries because of a securely fastened seatbelt. No charges have yet been laid.

review VIEWPOINTS*Speaking to our successful 2002 graduates

Let me say a few words to all those Grade 12 students who now know for sure that they have indeed graduated from F. G. Miller Jr./Sr. High School. For by now you have received the results of your Grade 12 diploma exams and you know for sure your high school completion standing. Congratulations, everyone! Now go follow your dream.

Let me quote some good advice entitled

"Desiderata" by Max Ehrmann. "Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible, without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even to the dull and the ignorant; they, too, have their story. Avoid loud and aggressive persons. They are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain or bitter, for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself.

"Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs, for the world is full of trickery, but let not this blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals, and everywhere life is full of heroism.

"Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection, neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all

deanna
EASTHOPE

from the FCSS desk

aridity and disenchantment, it is as perennial as the grass.

"Take kindly to the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with dark imaginings: many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness.

"Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be. And whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life, keep peace in your soul. With all its sham, drudgery, and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be cheerful. Strive to be happy."

So as you leave our little community of Elk Point, remember the words of Max Ehrmann in Desiderata and apply them to your life, whether you are furthering your education or entering the work force. So go out there and "go for it" and don't become a "Mr. Meant-To" as expressed by an unknown author.

*Mr. Meant-to has a comrade,
And his name is Didn't-do.
Have you ever chanced to meet them?
Did they ever call on you?*

*These two fellows live together
In the house of Never-win,
And I'm told that it is haunted
By the ghost of Might-have-been.*

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

Storyteller Denise Miller will visit the library this Friday

By Carlen Mutch
Summer Reading Program Coordinator

I wanted to start out with just a reminder that on Friday our storyteller will be here. She is coming at 11:00 a.m. and will be lots of fun. I hope to see lots of people come out to support her and have some fun.

Last week the theme at the Summer Reading

Program was Tales of the Sea. We had a huge group again with the younger kids. It's really hard to think of games to play with that many kids inside the library. We played a ring toss game as well as bug toss. It's funny to watch the younger kids because the line slowly creeps closer and closer to the target, and pretty soon they're one foot from the wall just placing the bugs on. We then made some sea creatures out of egg cartons.

On Thursday I had a small group of older kids and we, too, played ring toss. Instead of getting closer, the older kids back up. This proved quite hazardous. While one kid threw, the other kids hid under the tables. The fish hanging up in the kids' area also turned into targets to hit from across the library. Luckily no one else was in the library because there was a risk they may have been hit with a plastic disc as soon as they walked in. Luckily Daphne was away that day! We then made a storybook with mix and match pictures.

Last, just a quick reminder about overdue books. We've really had a problem with this and it is possible to jeopardize your membership if you constantly have lots of really overdue books. Also, because all libraries are joined on a system, if our library flags you, all other libraries will see. Please be considerate of other people who also wish to take out these books and bring them back on time. Remember, books are on loan for three weeks, movies and magazines for one week.

Congratulations!

Nutrition Notes - Water, the forgotten beverage

Did you know that about 60% of the human body is made up of water? Throughout the day the body loses water with air expired through the lungs, sweat evaporated from the skin, and as part of waste products (urine and feces). To maintain normal body fluid levels, the amount of water taken in should be approximately equal to the amount of water lost. A suitable daily allowance for adults in most cases is at least six to eight cups of caffeine-free fluids.

What's all the fuss about drinking water? Water is an essential nutrient vital to good health. Water transports nutrients and oxygen to body cells and takes waste products away, regulates body temperature, gives structure to cells and acts as a lubricant between joints. Increasing fluid intake can help prevent or improve constipation, decrease the risk of bladder or kidney infections, help with weight control (if more water, not juices are taken in) and can help improve alertness and concentration.

It is commonly believed that you will feel thirsty when your body needs water. Thirst may be an adequate guide for some, but many people are already dehydrated by the time they feel thirsty. For example, infants, sick people and the elderly may have a diminished thirst response. To ensure that fluid needs are met, drink water

Linda
FOX

Registered Dietitian

throughout the day rather than waiting until one is thirsty.

Water is the best fluid to help keep the body hydrated. Milk, juices, decaffeinated coffee, caffeine-free teas can also help.

Caffeine-containing fluids such as regular coffee, tea and cola beverages do not help in meeting our fluid needs. This is because caffeine is a diuretic, causing the body to lose water (more frequent trips to the bathroom). You can still enjoy some caffeine-containing beverages in moderation, that is, try to limit them to two to four cups per day, while still getting at least six to eight cups of caffeine-free beverages.

Remember, when you are physically active (even doing yardwork or chores) and/or the weather is hot like the heat wave we recently experienced, the body needs even more fluid. Try drinking small amounts more frequently, for example,

1/2 cup every 15 to 20 minutes. Keep a filled water bottle with you to sip from throughout the day.

Stay hydrated with water - Bottoms Up!

For more information, contact Linda Fox, RD at the Elk Point Health Centre, 724-3847.
